

Her dangling hand
abandoned to the wind
like a liana

slowly beats
to the rhythm of her steps up to the fluttering measure of her eyelashes

My hesitant hand
brushes off-beat
the divine pendulum

discreetly counts
perfect fifths
on the tip of my fingers

secretly composes
a march on a staff