

Like a cup of tea
overflowing

she keeps going places
unexpected
beyond will and power

drawing silhouettes
of sweet fragrance
in the white morning

and I can't help but clutch at the burning tablecloth and drape my heart
like a make-believe ghost

haunting every cup of tea with a trembling face