

Like a cup of tea
overflowing

she keeps going places
unexpected
beyond will and power

she draws silhouettes
of sweet fragrance
in the bright morning

I can't help but clutch
at the tablecloth
and drape my heart

like a make-believe ghost

I haunt every cup of tea with my trembling face